

REFERENCES LIST

INVESTIGATIONAL COVID-19 CONVALESCENT PLASMA GUIDANCE FOR INDUSTRY [DOCKET NUMBER FDA-2020-D-1137]

1. Roback JD and Guarner J, Convalescent Plasma to Treat COVID-19: Possibilities and Challenges, JAMA, epub ahead of print March 27, 2020, <https://jamanetwork.com/journals/jama/fullarticle/2763982>.
2. Shen C, Wang Z, Zhao F, Yang Y, et al., Treatment of 5 Critically Ill Patients with COVID-19 With Convalescent Plasma, JAMA, epub ahead of print March 27, 2020, <https://jamanetwork.com/journals/jama/fullarticle/2763983>.
3. Chen L, Xiong J, Bao L, Shi Y, Convalescent plasma as potential therapy for COVID-19, Lancet Infect Dis, epub ahead of print February 27, 2020, https://doi.org/10.1016/S1473-3099\(20\)30141-930141-9).
4. Duan K, Liu B, Li C, Zhang H, et al., The feasibility of convalescent plasma therapy in severe COVID-19 patients: a pilot study, MedRxiv, March 23, 2020, <https://www.medrxiv.org/content/10.1101/2020.03.16.20036145v1.full.pdf>.
5. Cheng Y, Wong R, Soo YO, Wong, W, et al., 2005, Use of convalescent plasma therapy in SARS patients in Hong Kong, Eur J Clin Microbiol Infect Dis, 24(1):44-46, <https://doi.org/10.1007/s10096-004-1271-9>.
6. Leider JP, Brunker PA, Ness PM, 2010, Convalescent transfusion for pandemic influenza: preparing blood banks for a new plasma product?, TRANSFUSION, 50(6):1384-1398, <https://doi.org/10.1111/j.1537-2995.2010.02590.x>.
7. Arabi YM, Hajeer AH, Luke T, Raviprakash K, et al., 2016, Feasibility of Using Convalescent Plasma Immunotherapy for MERS-CoV Infection, Saudi Arabia, Emerg Infect Dis, 22(9):1554-1561, <https://doi.org/10.3201/eid2209.151164>.